

ANNUAL REPORT

FOREWORD

DEAR READERS,

You are about to flip through our historically first annual report that features our achievements in 2021. The year 2021 was full of "firsts" in Czech-Taiwanese relations: the largest online B2B meeting during Czech-Taiwanese Business Days with almost 300 participants, an official Taiwanese business delegation to Prague on the ministerial level, or the first joint cooking show.

2021 was a challenging year, but whining will not change anything. Where there is a will, there is a way, and I am proud that CTBC managed to navigate the stormy waters of 2021 with a firm hand. Many completed events, projects and B2B meetings prove we worked hard in 2021.

The expectations from the Czech-Taiwanese relations are high after the epic visit of Mr. Vystrčil to Taiwan in 2022. CTBC kept the ball rolling in 2021, and I believe that 2022 will bring even more opportunities, surprises, and firsts. Stay with us on this exciting ride!

TAIWANCZ HIGH-TECH LEVELUP 2021

The Taiwanese business delegation that visited Prague on October 23–26 was led by the Minister of the National Development Council, Ming-hsin Kung, and the Minister of Science and Technology, Tsung-tsong Wu. As for 2021, the TaiwanCZ High-Tech LevelUP 2021 was the most extensive business visit in the history of both countries.

The sixty-six-member group consisted of the Taiwanese government representatives, prominent Taiwanese enterprises, and research institutes. Taiwanese businesses came to Prague to seek opportunities for cooperation in the fields of ICT, green technology, IoT, cybersecurity, healthcare, smart cities, tourism, banking, and electric vehicles. The CTBC is very honored to have had the opportunity to assist with the organization of B2B events and the overall program.

GLOBAL SUPPLY RESET

On September 13th, at the premises of the Czech Senate, high-level business leaders and senior experts from all around the world gathered to discuss the pressing issue of the diversification of supply chains in the post-COVID world. The experts also discussed how to better equip the Czech Republic for future shocks within supply chains and the post-COV-ID-19 Czech trade strategy.

The forum was held under the auspices of the President of the Czech Senate, Miloš Vystrčil, and organized under the Global Cooperation and Training Framework (GCTF) by the US Embassy Prague and Taipei Economic & Cultural Office, in cooperation with AMO – Association for International Affairs, the Czech-Taiwanese Business Chamber, and the Confederation of Industry of the Czech Republic.

#COOKINGDEMOCRACY

Lately, democracy has been downplayed as an outdated concept, with brewing totalitarian regimes on the rise. Now, more than ever, is the time for like-minded countries to look for things that connect them and help them to overcome global struggles. In many aspects, cooking and democracy are very similar, both can be messy, require improvisation, and a good deal of creativity.

#CookingDemocracy acts like a cookbook, collecting proven "recipes" and "key ingredients" for a nourished & healthy democracy around the globe. And how do we get the recipes? By talking to personalities who shape the discussion around democracy. While discussing a delicious local recipe, they manage to introduce some tips & tricks on how to nourish democracy on both the "micro-level" – in our everyday life and the "macro-level" – in politics. Our first 4 guests included Audrey Tang, the Digital Minister of Taiwan, Joanna Tsai, CEO of Taiwan+, Marek Hilšer, a Senator of the Parliament of the Czech Republic, and Markéta Vaňková, the mayor of Brno.

THE EU-TAIWAN BIA RESEARCH

For many years, the European Commission has wavered on exploring the possibilities of a bilateral investment agreement with Taiwan, despite Taiwan being one of the most competitive economies in the world. If the launch of the BIA negotiations were based solely on economic reasoning, the trade deal would have already been in place.

This paper, written by Vilém Semerák, Michal Paulus and Alice Rezková, provides arguments for decision-makers in the Czech Republic and the EU to consider while assessing the economic and strategic importance of a BIA with Taiwan. It summarizes the current Czech-Taiwanese trade situation and illustrates relevant arguments for Czech-Taiwanese trade enhancement under a potential BIA.

CO-ORGANIZING CENTRAL EUROPE ECOSYSTEM FORUM

The Central Europe Ecosystem Forum presented a panel of 4 prominent speakers from Austria, the Czech Republic, Germany, and Poland, who focused on hack-sharing tips to crack open the Central European market.

The event, which took place on November 19, 2021, created a valuable opportunity to discuss and explore the startup ecosystem and its development opportunities. The forum was organized by Business Next, the organizer of the largest startup festival in South East Asia, and by the Czech-Taiwanese Business Chamber.

CZECH REPUBLIC AND SEMICONDUCTORS: A PRIMER FOR DECISION-MAKERS

Lack of semiconductors, disturbed supply chains, the automobile industry in crisis – all those issues have the attention of many politicians in the Czech Republic. To support their decision-making in a very complex area demanding technological knowledge, Alice Rezková with Krystof Krulis prepared a primer that offers a glimpse into semiconductors' basics and the semiconductor production process and puts all this into a geopolitical context. The study also analyses Czech capacities in the semiconductor industry, thus offering food for thought for future Czech-Taiwanese cooperation that is expected to flourish in this industry.

In the darkest times of the COVID-19 pandemic, the kind-hearted Taiwanese friends expressed their support to the Czech front-line healthcare professionals via thoughtful messages and postcards.

On May 11, 2021, a one-day-only outdoor postcards exhibition was held in the Fakultní Nemocnice Královské Vinohrady in Prague. More than 50 postcards from different parts of Taiwan, including the thoughtful message from Audrey Tang 唐鳳, were displayed on the small hospital's patio.
